GENERAL POLITICAL NEWS.

Personal and Explanatory.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Grant was the guest last night of W. H. Beard of Brooklyn, one of the presidential electors, where he met 100 of the principal citizens of Brooklyn during the evening. In conversation he denied in the most emphatic manner the reports of a secret meeting and bargaining between Garfield and Conkling at Mentor. He was present at the interview, but there was neither plotting, bargaining or private understanding as reported, nor any approach to either.

The Shoestring District.

The Times says the shoestring district, Mississippi, comes to the front with the official report of the recent election. In Coahoma county 700 votes were thrown out and in six other counties 3358 were rejected on the thinnest pretexts. The ballot box in Jefferson county was captured by a shotgun. Lynch, colored republican, was elected to congress by a majority of 800. Gen. Chalmers received the certificate on a cooked majority of 3783. Will this infamy be allowed to win?

Magnanimous Fowler.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The Tribune's New York special says: Fowler, of the democratic state committee, now affirms that there has been no intention to oust Garfield; that the county committees were not directed but advised to protest against returns on the ground of fraud, and that there was never any intention of protesting against the form of the republican ballots.

Ferreting out Fraud.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—Charles S. Fisher, a young and active republican worker and supervisor, was before the U. S. commissioner to-day charged with attempting fraud at the polls in the October election. The accusation was brought by republicans and republicans were the chief witnesses against him. The testimony went on to show that he had gotten fourteen republican ballots in the box at the first ward in this city. The ballot-box was so arranged that each ballot was stamped as it fell into the box. Fisher, it is charged, had supplied himself with several stamped tickets, and would occasionally drop several on the floor, declare they had fallen from the box and have them deposited. It was afterwards found that the bogus stamp was defective and the ballots, fourteen in number, were thrown out. They were all republican tickets.

The testimony of More and Wilson, other judges of election, and of Coppock, democratic supervisor, was taken. They agreed substantially with Stone, the first witness, but none of them saw Fisher throw down any of the fraudulent tickets. Witness testified that he made the rubber stamp several days before the election upon the order of a man he had never seen before. He thought Fisher resembled the man who ordered the stamps. Testimony not concluded.

Question for the Tall Sycamore.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Tribune commenting upon the renewal of the southern exodus which has begun again, says: It seems that the exodus of negroes from the south has been renewed, and that thousands of colored people are preparing to leave Alabama and Louisiana. Efforts are to be made to divert the tide from Kansas which is already submerged, to other parts of the west. How many thousands of dollars of public money was it that Senator Voorhees spent in the endeavor to prove that the exodus was a republican scheme to carry "Injianny?" The election is over and the negroes seem just as anxious to get away as they were before. It would be only a fair thing for Voorhees to draw his check for the amount of the expenses of that investigation, and turn it into the conscience fund of the treasury.

Georgia Senator.

ATLANTA, Nov. 16.—Joseph E. Brown was elected senator over Lawton by a vote of 146 to 67.

Michigan Senatorship.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Michigan politicians say Conger has the best chance for senatorship from Michigan. Bagley and Baldwin are also prominent candidates.

Ohio Senatorship.

Parties from Ohio tell widely different stories regarding the chances of Foster and Sherman for the senatorship. The prevailing belief here is that Sherman will be called to Garfield's cabinet, and that the announcement will be made very soon.

Nebraska's Vote.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The Tribune's Omaha special says: Complete returns show republican majorities for state offices ranging from 22,616 to 24,935 over the democrats and greenbackers. The full vote of the state is 87,309. The greenback vote is 3800.

Byrne, the Bilk.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The News says: Chas. A. Byrne, editor of Truth, said to-day in relation to the Morey letter that some things had transpired that almost made him believe the letter was a forgery. If some things in connection with it could be explained he could concede that it was a forgery. He also stated that Kenward Philp is no longer connected with Truth.

Time Extended.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The district attorney agrees to extend the time for justifying of Philp's sureties. Philp remains at large.

Louisiana Politics.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—United States marshal Wharton in an interview, stated that the republicans proposed to contest the votes of democrats from the 4th and 5th congressional districts and may also decide to contest the 1st and 2d districts.

Governor Wiltz has appointed Hon. T. C. Manning, ex-chief justice, of the state supreme court, U. S. senator vice Spofford deceased.

A mandamus is asked and made returnable Monday, compelling the city to levy a tax of $12,000 to pay the interest on the city consolidated bonds.

The courts will decide who is entitled to the possession of the city hall.

A DEMOCRATIC FREE BALLOT.

The Roar of the Useful Bulldozer—South Carolina Toleration.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Tiger club of Greenville county, South Carolina, recently celebrated the democratic victory in that state and adopted the following resolutions:

That from henceforth we pledge ourselves to discard any man, white or black, who voted with the radical party, and that we will not rent any of our lands to, or have upon our premises such men, until they prove their sincerity to honest government or the democratic party by words and deeds.

That we earnestly call upon the people of our county and state to join hands with us in this matter as the only course for the people to save the government from corruption and fraud.

That we beg the citizens and merchants of Greenville city to discharge from their employ any white or black radical, and fill their places with democrats.

That we discountenance any man who will violate the above resolutions and consider him wanting in loyalty to his party and spot him as an enemy to good government.

That no tenants whom we may have on our places shall be allowed to have in their employ any white or black radical; that any voter a stranger to us who may apply to us for employment, must produce satisfactory evidence that he is a democrat.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—There was a full attendance at the cabinet meeting to-day, each department being represented by its head. The question of appointing a chief signal officer was discussed, but no decision was reached.

Important if True.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: Buckley, a prominent merchant, told in the police court to-day how he had witnessed caresses lavished on his wife by a clerk in the pension office, named Geo. W. Black, and how, when he appeared before the astonished gaze of the guilty pair, they both attacked him and he came off badly, but in the fight which ensued he attracted the attention of a policeman and had Black arrested. The case attracts much attention.

The Ute Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Col. A. B. Meacham, left Washington this evening for Denver, where he will attend the trial of Agent Berry and then proceed to the Los Pinos agency in company with his colleagues of the Ute commission, under escort of a body of troops, for the purpose of paying the northern Utes the money due them under treaty.

After the Forgers.

Commissioner John Davenport of New York, is in the city. His business is said to be in connection with the Morey-Chinese letter and with special reference to the recent testimony of the witness O'Brien.

John Davenport and Johnson of Cumberland have gone as mysteriously as they came, but have accomplished important results. They were in consultation with Col. Ingersoll most of the time. They subpoenaed H. Hadley, secretary of the "Conservative Republican Club," in New York, with the Chinese letter copy. The evidence on this head is deemed conclusive, and he probably signed the name Morey to the register. It is suspected that the signature to the Chinese letter was obtained by tracing from Garfield's letter to Hadley, which he wrote not knowing the character of the man, in answer to an inquiry for fuller proof that he was not guilty of the Credit Mobilier and De Golyer charges. H. H. Finly, the author of the notorious Springer letter, and henchman of Barnum, is also suspected of conspiracy. Whether Davenport and Johnson have connected Stilson Hutchens with the affair is not known. They were very reticent, but said the trip had been successful.

Railroad Suit Decided.

"Justice Miller, sitting as circuit judge, decided that the directors of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad have the control of their road upon payment of past due interest coupons, which they are ready to pay. The Union Trust Co., has been receiver for six years.

The Stellarton Disaster—Appeal for Help.

STELLARTON, Nov. 16.—There is no very great change in affairs here to-day. A meeting was held last evening in the company's office, and it was resolved to send the following appeal to the mayor and wardens of various towns throughout Canada and the United States.

A terrible calamity has happened in this place, two disastrous explosions being the means of killing fifty men and boys and leaving 33 widows and 110 orphans. Seven hundred men, representing a population of 2000 people, are thrown out of employment in the face of a Canadian winter. We appeal to a generous public for immediate help. Contributions may be sent to any of the undersigned.

James Hudson, manager Albion mines; Robert Simpson, manager Drummond mine; Henry Poole, manager Acadia mines; John Greener, manager Vale mine; H. Langel, manager Nova Scotia mines; Rev. Wm. McDonald, P. P.; Rev. D. C. Moore, rector Christ church; Rev. Chas. Dunn, of the church of Scotland; Rev. Thos. Cumming, of the presbyterian church; Rev. M. E. Thurlow, of the Methodist church.

THE MINNESOTA HORROR.

Burning of the Insane Asylum at St. Peter—Many Insane Persons Perish by Fire and Cold.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

ST. PAUL, MINN., Nov. 16.—Dispatches to the latest editions of the morning papers, indicate that the fire in St. Peters asylum was not as serious as reported last night, only one wing of the building being destroyed. The whole structure, which was ten years in course of erection, was only finished three years ago, and cost over half a million dollars; loss, a hundred thousand to one hundred and fifty thousand; no insurance, the State having neglected this precaution. The origin of the fire is unknown, though it is located in the basement of the north wing, which was destroyed. Reports of loss of life are indefinite and conflicting. Different rumors place the number of victims at two or three to fifty, but no bodies have been found, and no one surely known to be lost. The Superintendent ordered the release of all patients as soon as the danger became imminent. Probably in the confusion of the night some were overlooked and burned. This probability is increased by the fact that some rooms quickly filled with smoke, and could not be entered by the rescuers. Citizens cared for the unfortunates last night.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 16.—A bulletin to the Pioneer Press from St. Peters, says: The number of lives lost by burning and freezing in the insane asylum, is variously estimated at from twenty to fifty. Loss on the building $80,000.

A special dated 1:45 A. M. says: The scenes at the burning of the south wing of the hospital were heartrending in the extreme. So appalling a sight has rarely been witnessed, and I trust may never be again. The patients in the annexed wing were males. Many of them refused to leave the building at all. They ran up and down the halls screaming, crying and acting like bedlamites. They were, of course those who could not be coaxed nor forced out of the building, and became unhappy victims of the flames, or suffocated in the smoke. Others were saved, some by ladders and some by leaping from the windows. Some were nearly nude, some shoeless and hatless; all were exposed to the exceeding cold of the night. Many poor, demented and crazed inmates fled as if for their lives, and could not be overtaken or confined. Their sufferings in this frightful condition can better be imagined than described.

The whole scene is fearful to contemplate and impossible to describe. The poor dazed inmates of the asylum, who had escaped the flames, were at large half-clothed, and were to be seen in all directions flying in wild fright from those who attempted to save them. The air was bitter cold and the poor wretches, with half-naked bodies and bleeding feet, were flying about hiding in alleys and dark corners. It was a sight once seen would never be forgotten.

For some time the capacity of the building had been tried to its utmost. There were about 800 patients, and every inch of space was utilized. What will be done with the poor creatures, turned out in the cold and their malady increased by the excitement of the occasion, is a serious question. There are two other buildings situated in town which are used, but they are already crowded to their full capacity. The asylum at Rochester is full and will doubtless be unable to provide accommodations for any more.

The following additional news regarding the St. Peter fire is received: While the flames were slowly progressing the matrons of the female department made all haste to get their inmates out, and many of them ran shrieking in their night clothes in the snow drifts, even burying themselves in the snow, and had to be dragged into barns and sheds while those near by wrapped blankets and shawls around them. Hence intense suffering could not be avoided as they had to be taken about 15 or 20 rods through the snow. The number burned cannot be given in any way at the present time. Many are known to have wandered away in the intense excitement that prevailed throughout the whole premises. Several bodies were taken out of some of the rooms and halls and several persons gotten out into the halls when they would be determined to return to the flames. One room, occupied by two, was broken in and while one was dragged out, the other was determined to remain in his warm bed, and when dragged out insisted on waiting to be dressed. At some windows there were three or four men begging to be saved from death while the flames were bursting from the adjoining windows. One was dragged through a half open screen and badly mangled. One fireman was also injured by the Mankato Co.'s force pump. Also a St. Peter man was injured by falling on the steps in the main hall. At St. Peter all is terror and excitement. To get a complete list of the killed and hurt is now among the possibilities. Dr. Bartlett, of the asylum says there are not more than 12 lives lost and probably as many more hurt and suffering from the bitter cold of last night. Indeed, more people are believed to be hurt and dying from exposure to death or than from burns. Others say as many as twenty insane people either perished in the flames or died on the cold hills during the night. So many of the patients have disappeared it cannot be told who are dead and who have run away. The suffering has been terrible and no pen can describe it or human mind realize it. Hundreds of patients are helpless as children.

Gov. Pillsbury heads a band of noble workers who are doing everything possible for the comfort of the distressed. Mr. Carson of Minneapolis has found the dead body of his father-in-law, Mr. Abrams, and will have it removed to Minneapolis. The real damage to the hospital building will amount to $30,000. The central building and south wing have been preserved.

THE AGITATION IN IRELAND.

An Appeal to their Brethren.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—If the expedition to Lord Erne's house proves unsuccessful, the tenants intend to hold a meeting in the northern counties and appeal to northern tenants.

Schedule of Meetings.

DUBLIN, Nov. 16.—Attached to the bill of particulars furnished by the prosecution to the traversers is a schedule of the meetings held by the league, concluding with that held at Limerick on the second instant, but it was expressly stated that the government is not thereby precluded from relying upon subsequent proceedings of the land league for convicting.

Parnell.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Parnell will will go to Paris immediately.

The Wrongs and the Remedies.

John Bright, speaking at Birmingham yesterday, strongly condemned the land laws of Ireland, which virtually gave the proprietors a monopoly of the land. Bright attributed the state of affairs in Ireland to the rejection by the house of lords of the compensation for the disturbance bill. With regard to failure he said force would effect nothing. The government would not approve the chimerical projects for the transfer of land to tenants. Bright believed the remedy would be a well considered plan giving tenants security in the possession of farms and protection against constant increase of rent. This plan would include a provision by which the landlords willing to sell would be able to deal with tenants willing to buy.

Sleeping on their Arms.

BALLINROBE, Nov. 16.—The commander of the troops here has been ordered to be ready to proceed at a moment's notice by forced marches in the direction of Galway, probably on account of the alleged importation of arms into disturbed districts from America by way of the great English ports.

A member of the land league informed your correspondent that the expedition of Loughmask tenants to Lord Ernehouse's residence has been abandoned, as the executive land league refused to sanction it on the ground that Boycott intends to quit the district. The address of the tenants has been withdrawn.

Troops and Troops.

Four hundred additional troops will be sent here immediately. The land league has refused to sanction the expedition to Lord Earnhouse because of the excited state of the country.

Rifles for Ireland.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 16.—There is good reason to believe 8000 rifles were shipped recently at several Italian ports for Ireland, and that they were purchased in Switzerland by Irishmen who had come from the United States.

A Split Expected.

The Standard, in a leading editorial, says: It is understood that to-day's cabinet council will take an important decision in regard to Ireland. The article hints at a split in the cabinet.

The Times in its leader also speaks of serious differences of opinion in the cabinet in regard to Ireland.

For the Solid Section.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Men of the south, a word with you. You are beaten again. Give it up now. The ideas of rebellion will never triumph in this country. You can never run this government on the principles for which Lee and Jackson fought. You will never again have as good a chance to win as you had this time. Why dash your heads against the wall of northern sentiment? Half a million of men did not die for nothing during those four terrible years which you remember so well. This is a nation. Its citizens are all equal before the law. Why not manfully recognize these two great facts which yesterday's election emphasized anew? Give up your notion that it is your duty to your "section" to stand by the party which sympathized with the south during the war. No section has any claim upon you. Sectionalism is dead. The union, one and indivisible, alone has a right to your allegiance. Open your minds to the lesson of the hour. Let bygones be bygones, and resolve that in future there shall be tolerance and fair play in your states, and that the right of every citizen to vote as he pleases and have his vote honestly counted shall be protected. One thing more. Don't you think you have trusted the northern democracy long enough? Has it ever helped you? Has it not repeatedly deceived you with false promises and left you to bear the brunt of defeat? Why not try the party of ideas and progress now? It cherishes no malice. Republicanism is just as well adapted for your latitude as for ours.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

California Complete.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Complete official returns have been received from every county in the State except Inyo, Modoc and Trinity, and from these complete semi-official returns, so that the result will not be changed. Edgerton, Republican, has 502 majority over Judge Terry, Democrat, elected. The other Democratic electors have majorities as follows: Short 87, Wallace 89, Brown 130, Henley 136, Delvalle 143.

Dividend.

Eureka Con declares a dividend of 40 cents.

Accidental Death.

COLUSA, Nov. 16.—John Fossmayer was thrown from a wagon in town this afternoon and instantly killed. He was a farmer residing near the foot hills west of town.

Mammoth City Burned.

BENTON, Nov. 16.—A report is just received that Mammoth City was destroyed by fire on Sunday. No particulars.

Bodie dispatch: The fire at Mammoth City on Sunday broke out about half past 10 o'clock in the morning in the rear of Geo. W. Rowan's store. It rapidly communicated to adjoining buildings and was only checked after it had burned the upper portion of the town above the Herald office. The lower part of the town, including all the buildings and mill of the Mammoth Mining Company. Considerable distress has been occasioned to families burned out, but the citizens are doing all they can to alleviate their sufferings. Mammoth is 60 miles distant from Bodie, the nearest telegraphic point, and communication is accordingly slow and difficult. Losses are thought to aggregate $45,000. The amount of insurance is unknown. The fire is believed to have been accidental.

Woods Fire.

DUTCH FLAT, Nov. 16.—A big fire is raging in the woods near Blue Canon. A strong wind blowing makes the danger imminent to the railroad, telegraphs, mills and flumes. All the men that can be got are being sent out to stop the fire wherever possible.

A big fire is also raging at Lowell hill in Nevada county.

NEVADA.

Mining Movements.

VIRGINIA, Nov. 16.—The official report of the Union to-night is, that but 30 men have been discharged from the shaft and that the raising of the fourth compartment is going on still a few places. The Con. Imperial pumps are running, and it is believed has two donkey pumps at the 2700 foot level to send the water to the Caledonia sumps. The probabilities are that the water will be kept out so as to allow work in all the mines flooded from Jacket.

The Alta is running a diamond drill southeast from crosscut No. 2 on the 2050 foot level, and will penetrate the ore body 45 to 60 feet south of where the cut on the drift is running east, and expects to reach the ledge to-morrow.

A CYCLONE.

Sitka Gets a Severe Blast—Considerable Damage Done.

PORT TOWNSEND, Nov. 16.—The schooner General Miller arrived last night from Sitka, bringing the following report: On the morning of the 26th October a violent storm sprung up, increasing rapidly in intensity from about 5 to 11 o'clock, when the barometer fell to twenty-eight twenty. The Jamestown parted one of her bow cables and drifted about two lengths toward the beach in front of the Indian ranch. The cable attached to the wharf prevented her drifting ashore. The schooner General Miller, of San Francisco, which had arrived the day before and anchored off the Castle Rock, dragged her anchors rapidly and was drifting towards the reefs opposite when a cable was sent out by Captain Glass, of the Jamestown, and made fast at the pier and saved her. The wharf, which has raised from its underpinning, was wrecked, the pile driver parted moorings and was smashed on the Japonsky rocks; and many roofs and fences were demolished on the shore. Lt. Symonds, navigating officer of the Jamestown, calls the storm a cyclone, and says it took the same course as the memorable one of the same day of the month thirteen years ago, October 26, 1867, when the United States ship Ossipee was blown off to sea a day's course out and had such a terrible handling. The course of the gale was first from the northeast, on a point north of east, and then it shifted around to the southwest. A little before 1 o'clock it ... the wind had almost completely subsided, and as three bells pealed from the deck of the Jamestown a hush that was wonderful in its stillness fell upon the waves and along the shore which the furious storm had so lately lashed. Then came a sudden sensation of uneasiness from some cause, and then the great log buildings of Sitka seemed to those who were in them, to have been seized by some phrensied Titan in a fit of fury and shaken with all the infuriated rage of a roused giant. The inhabitants rushed out to see their neighbors all pouring out of their own doors and to be conscious that a severe earthquake had visited their city. The shock lasted from twenty to thirty seconds, according to various estimates, and was very severe. About half an hour later another shock, slight and short, and in the course of the succeeding forty-eight hours about eight more shocks. Only a few of them were severe, and none lasting longer than two or three seconds were felt. Considerable damage was done to chinaware on the shelves of the stores and some in dwellings by the first shock, but no serious results are reported.

Extensive Prospecting Tour.

Messrs. Bean, Duncan, and other miners, who went through Chilcat bay to the interior of Alaska and the head waters of the Yukon last summer, returned on the 23d of October. They penetrated about two hundred miles into a region of vast plain interspersed with ranges of low mountains and rivers connecting numbers of lakes. They found gold in many places, and the deposits indicated rich placer beds in the mountains from which they came, but the formation did not show with certainty the directions in which they lay. Much of their time was lost from ignorance of the country and want of any correct maps, but they think the knowledge they have now acquired will enable them to find the placer diggings early next summer, and they intend to try it again.

Mining Suspended.

Work is suspended at present on the quartz mines near Sitka, but a large supply of giant powder, tools, etc., were brought up on the schooner, and it is said operations will be commenced soon on a large scale.

Indians Quiet.

The Indians are quiet except for their regular daily and nightly hoochinoo riots among the natives.

A series of weekly literary entertainments, lectures, etc., free to all, has been commenced and the educational outcome of this community is improving rapidly.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Dancing Bill is Dead.

VICTORIA, Nov. 16.—A well known miner called Dancing Bill died on the way up from Deloire river, Cassiar, about a month ago from sheer exhaustion and a broken down constitution. He was in company with a pioneer miner named Ned Bray, and his last words were that he did not mind dying but he regretted that he could not outlive "Black Jack," referring to a partner with whom he had mined for many years.

Earthquake Shock.

At noon of the 26th ult. a severe shock of earthquake was felt on the Stickeen river and throughout Cassiar district. Buildings rocked perceptibly and articles were thrown from the shelves with considerable violence. No damage worthy of mention resulted.

Miscellaneous Items.

An early meeting of the provincial parliament is expected.

Engineers will proceed soon to lay out the line of railway from Burrard Inlet to Emory City.

Cotsford's friends hope to make a match with Hanlan for their favorite.

Latest Cassiar News.

It is estimated that the total amount of gold yielded by Cassiar this year is about $250,000. Upwards of 150 miners will winter in the mines principally on McDame creek, which is now almost entirely occupied by Chinamen.

The weather of late has been extremely stormy, and at Fort Wrangle, during the prevalence of a severe gale, a sloop, having on board a cargo of oils, furs, etc., dragged her anchors and drifted seaward. After a search of five days she was discovered stranded on a sand bar, but only slightly damaged.

Provisions in the mines are plentiful.

SHORT STUDIES OF SCIENCE.

The Photophone.

A writer in a London paper in discussing the photophone says: The problem which Prof. Bell has attacked is that of the transmission of speech, not by wires, electricity or any mechanical medium, but by the agency of light. The instrument which embodies the solution of this problem he has named the photophone. It bears the same relation to the telephone as the heliograph bears to the telegraph. You speak to a transmitting instrument which flashes the vibrations along a beam of light to a distant station, where a receiving instrument reconverts the light into audible speech. As in the case of that exquisite instrument, the telephone, so in the case of the photophone, the means to accomplish this end are of the most ridiculous simplicity. The transmitter consists of a plain silvered mirror of thin glass or mica. Against the back of this flexible mirror the speaker's voice is directed; a powerful beam of light is caught from the sun and directed upon the mirror so as to be reflected straight to the distant station. This beam of light is caused by the speaker's voice to be thrown into corresponding vibrations. At the distant station the beam is received by another mirror and concentrated upon a simple disk of hard rubber fixed as a diaphragm across the end of a hearing tube. The intermittent rays throw the disk into vibration in a way not yet explained, yet with sufficient power to produce an audible result, thus reproducing the very tones of the speaker. Other receivers may be used, in which the variation in electrical resistance of selenium under varying illumination is the essential principle. Other substances besides hard rubber—gold, selenium, silver, iron, paper, and notably antimony—are similarly sensitive to light. We congratulate Prof. Bell, the commentator concludes most sincerely on this addition to his well won laurels, and venture to predict for his photophone a great, if not widely extended, future of usefulness.

History of the Bayonet.

The history of the bayonet is thus set forth in the catalogue of Gen. Pitt Rivers' anthropological collection, which the British government will probably purchase for the public benefit and place upon exhibition at the South Kensington museum: In the early part of the seventeenth century it was found necessary to retain the use of pikemen in the infantry on account of the defenseless position of the firelockmen when the enemy approached to close quarters. To remedy this defect they were accustomed about the middle of the century to stick the handles of their daggers into the muzzle of their guns in order to use them as pikes. Of course, when the dagger was so fixed the gun could not be fired. But as many of the daggers had rings at the guard, the men saw the expediency of fastening the dagger to the muzzle of the piece by means of the ring. Soon the dagger or plug bayonet was so secured to the outside of the barrel that the firelock could be loaded and discharged although bayonets were fixed. The British had their first experience of what may be called the compound gun and pike in the time of William III., in one of the Flanders campaigns, and they "swore terribly," no doubt when they found that their opponents could fire at them with fixed bayonets. Rivers' collection shows all the transition stages of the bayonet from the plug handle to the modern tube and catch attachment. This is only a sample brick, so to speak, of the civil and warlike groupings of man from precedent to precedent to his present condition. We have a fine opportunity of doing something of the same kind on this continent, and the marvel is why some men of wealth do not embrace it, and so secure the perpetuity of their own name through the advancement of an important department of science.

Interior Decoration as a Science.

The one unfortunate thing in house decoration nowadays, in the opinion of Mr. R. W. Edis, is the everlasting seeking after some novelty in papers, curtains or other hangings. Everybody wants to have a room different from their neighbor. "Decoration is being done as a fashion, not from any real love for it. Of course, we should not like to see room after room repeating itself in decoration; but why a few really good papers should not be the ground work of true artistic decoration—when the narrowness of worldly circumstances prevents the more elaborate and more expensive hand decoration or distemper—and let the rest follow from the design, there is no good reason. If that suggestion should be adopted, there might be hope for real art decoration instead of the cold formality and everlasting interchange of two or three colors. As a critical writer on art decoration has said: 'If the papers on our walls and the curtains we hang in our rooms were, even at second hand, but the record of the fresh impressions and the grateful fancies of artists of our own day instead of being encumbered with mechanical pattern work struggling to be artistic, it would be better than all the present miserable striving after novelty.'" Not to have what your neighbor possesses is the bane of decorative art.

Unsinkable Ships.

One of the latest attempts to make a ship unsinkable has been brought to public attention by an Englishman named Mr. Lamb. He has embodied what he thinks will insure the buoyancy of vessels under all circumstances in a steel-built steam launch thirty-seven feet long, six feet deep and five feet eight inches beam. When afloat the launch has a free board of four feet. The novelty in the construction of this craft consists in the introduction of seven flat air-tight cylinders of metal on each side. The inner ends of these cylinders are built into and form part of the framing and ceiling of the vessel, while the other ends project beyond the outer skin, and are protected by a sort of casing. When the launch is loaded this casing has its lower part under water, but it is not intended to be wholly submerged. It cannot be said that this casing will add to the beauty of the launch, but on the trial trip the speed was found to be fair and the motion very steady. Whether the building of air tight compartments along the sides of ships so that they cannot be used for cargo or tampered with easily, will supersede or be found a useful addition to the ordinary compartment system is not yet certain.

The Declivity of Rivers.

A very slight declivity suffices to give the running motion to water. Three inches per mile in a smooth, straight channel gives a velocity of about three miles an hour. The Ganges, which gathers the waters of the Himalaya mountains, the loftiest in the world, is, at 100 miles from its mouth, only 300 feet above the level of the sea, and to fall 300 feet in its long course the water requires more than a month. The great river Magdalena, in South America, running for 1000 miles between two ridges of the Andes, falls only 500 feet in all that distance; above the distance of the 1000 miles it is seen descending in rapids and cataracts from the mountains. The gigantic Rio de La Plata has so gentle a descent to the ocean that in Paraguay, 1500 miles from its mouth, large ships are seen which have sailed against the current all the way by the force of the wind alone—that is to say, which, on the beautiful inclined plane of the stream, have been gradually lifted by the soft wind, and even against the current, to an elevation greater than our loftiest spires.

Expressive Head Lines.

The following were the head lines of the Cincinnati Enquirer, the great democratic organ of the middle west, on the morning after election. They are at once humorous, pathetic and expressive:

"Beaten!—Yesterday's Elections—The Solid North Responds to the Solid South—The Melancholy Days of November Nearly Anticipated by the Bitter Blasts of October—New York Gone, Connecticut Gone, Maine Gone, Indiana Gone, New Jersey Gone, Every Thing Gone but the Solid South and the Never-Dying Principles of the Grand Old Democratic Party—Here Are a Few of the Astonishing Majorities Claimed by the Impudent Republicans—New York 25,000, Pennsylvania 30,000, Ohio 30,000, Indiana 6,000, Connecticut 3,000, Massachusetts 50,000, New Jersey 1,000 and So On to an Unlimited and Disgusting Extent—The Figures May Fall Short of Their Claims, but They are Quite Sufficient to Render an Electoral Commission Unnecessary.

A Changed Tune.

[From the Louisville Courier Journal.]

We shall not lower the dignity of defeat by considering any of the disagreeable incidents which have conspired to swell its proportions. Nor shall we discredit ourselves and those who feel with us by any ebullition of temper. All that we have thought proper to say we have said; and, yielding to no one in detestation for the party record of the man who has been elected president of the United States, we declared early in the canvass what we here take leave to repeat, that he is a person of commanding intellect, voluminous experience in public affairs, incapable alike of personal venality or malignity, and capable of being and of wishing to be, a just chief magistrate.

Some of the Rich Californians.

[From the San Francisco Chronicle.]

The assessor of this city and county yesterday turned over to the auditor his annual supplemental roll, which amounts to about $130,000,000. The assessor states that since he turned over his regular assessment roll in June last it has come to his knowledge that large amounts of personal property, especially stocks in corporations, were not given account of by the owners thereof. The new constitution prescribes that such property shall be assessed and the assessor, acting as he says, under legal advice, has incorporated such assessments in his supplemental roll, leaving it to the parties assessed to contest the matter in the courts if they wish. Reductions can only be made when a certificate has been presented to the assessor as to the assessment of the amount of their property. Annexed are some of the larger assessments:

THE MAN WHO LAUGHED.

A Scene of the Humorous in a Moment of Supreme Peril.

[From the New York Post.]

Shakespeare shows us how the presence of tremendous danger or even grief sometimes drives men to bursts of laughter—amazing and to some superficial observers impossible as seems the incongruity. It is curious and profoundly interesting to note how in real life an event will now and then occur directly suggestive of the great master's treatment in this and in other of his methods or procedures, and demonstrating his fidelity to nature as if by a flash of conviction.

An extraordinary incident in point is related in the course of a narrative of Mr. Silva, a passenger by the lost City of Vera Cruz of the wreck of that vessel and his own subsequent escape. He has been telling about the terrible scene that immediately followed the breaking up of the ship. Many were at once drowned outright, but others, who still lived and clung to all manner of fragments, were horribly beaten by whirling wreckage, often dashed from the frail articles to which they clung, and rolled over and over by the monstrous waves. After describing a number of frightful episodes Mr. Silva goes on to say:

"We ran across a sailor who was on another part of the steamer. He said: 'Hello, how are you making out?' We said: 'Pretty well under the circumstances.' The next moment we were whirling through the air and water, and as we came up the sailor was laughing at us; for the wave had not broken until it passed him. We kept together until dark, fighting for life until about 7 o'clock. A heavy sea knocked us off our raft, and I saw no more of it. I shouted and called to the others but no reply came. I was alone with nothing but my life-preserver."

This extraordinary picture of a man laughing, as if at a practical joke in the midst of carnage agony and desolation, is wonderfully impressive; and the more so because of the directness and simplicity of the sketch which precludes all thought of preparation or .... Thos. Drumgould, the fourth assistant engineer of the ship, who was also among the saved, furnishes just a piece of testimony which in a manner affirms the justness of the foregoing quotation, and bears witness to the possibility of a ludicrous effect being brought amid the extremest surrounding horror. Mr. Drumgould relates that, while the water around was full of human beings, most of whom had been injured by pieces of debris, and were bleeding profusely. The waves moved up to a tremendous height. "I would see a man sail up, clinging to some object, suddenly shoot up above me in the air on the top of one of these waves, and the question would pass through my mind: 'Where is he going to?'" Later on he saw a piece of wreck which proved to be a side of the captain's house. He left the barrel, saying to himself, "Now I have done with that," and clung to the piece of wreck. The waves playfully tossed this over several times, but still he clung to it. We have thus two bits of proof, corroborating the other, that show how there may be room in the mind, among the most appalling circumstances, and even in the presence of almost certain death, for the perception and enjoyment of humor. The incidents instantly convey to us a feeling of something Shakespearean and although these scenes analyses require no such confirmation of the master's truthfulness, either Coleridge or Schlegel might have been glad to enrich their commentaries by events so forcibly illustrative of one of the dramatist's boldest and most striking devices—a device repeatedly stigmatized as extravagant and unnatural, but which experience has shown to be strictly consonant with fact.

Swallowing POISON

Sparks of disgusting mucous from the nostrils or upon the tonsils, Watery Eyes, Snuffles, Buzzing in the Ears, Deafness, Crackling sensations in the Head, Intermittent Pains over the Eyes, Fetid Breath, Nasal Twang, Scabs in the Nostrils, and Tickling in the Throat are

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and undermining malady curses mankind. One-fifth of our Children die of diseases generated by its Infectious Poison, and one-fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system.

Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure absorbs the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our judgment has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 17, 1880.

THE EFFORT TO CAPTURE THE NEXT CONGRESS.

It would seem that there had been experience enough with dirty tricks for partisan ends during the last few years to convince everybody that unfairness and rascality not only will not pay in the long run, but that they seldom gain even the temporary object for which they are employed to secure. All the cheating in Maine accomplished nothing, and the suppression of the republican vote in the southern states has been quite as futile. Methods like these are frustrated always by the opposition they provoke. For among the people there is a sense of justice, fairness and honesty which may always be trusted to assert itself. And it prevails in politics as in other concerns, whatever politicians whose moral natures are subdued to the element they work in, may say or think to the contrary. As if there had not been lessons enough on this subject, there are signs that desperate measures are in contemplation by the leaders of the party defeated so signally a fortnight ago to capture the next congress. It may, indeed, be expected that the present clerk, in making up the roll of the next house, —a duty which the law devolves upon him,—will leave out the names of several republicans elected by small majorities, in the hope of securing in that way a democratic majority sufficient to effect an organization and settle contests favorable to his party. The returns thus far received indicate that the republicans will have eight or ten majority without counting the greenbackers, four of whom were originally republicans. There are several southern districts from which positive returns have not yet been received, but enough is known to show that the republicans have a small though positive majority, which can not be overcome except by some trick of rascality like that of making up the roll, as already foreshadowed. But it is doubtful whether all the democratic members would sanction such an act. The party contains large numbers of men who are tired of dependence on mere expedients of rascality, who are disgusted with the party managers for their constant recurrence to these shabby devices, and who have the penetration to see that if success is ever to be gained there must be an entirely new departure. They know well enough that any little apparent advantage gained through such methods is in fact a loss. Control of the legislative branch of the government is a great prize, and its proximity to democratic grasp is doubtless very tempting; but it can not be seized illegally and held securely. The next congress will not only direct the general policy of the country for the ensuing two years, but it will be called upon to formulate and declare the reapportionment of representatives for ten years to come, as well as to decide upon the division of the state of Texas and admit several new states. All these are matters which should be settled in accord with the will of the people, as recently declared. A republican congress will stay the progress of southern supremacy and substitute for sectional views the growth of the principle of nationality, while a democratic congress would promote the former and check the latter, and balk the will of the country as expressed in the recent election. Hence no mere trick can be successfully interposed as an obstacle to negative the edict of the people. Should it be attempted it would bring the democratic party to a still more severe reckoning. It has been announced that several republicans in southern districts have already been counted out on various trifling pretexts, such as petty errors in spelling names written or printed on the ballots. This is the Maine fraud over again. Disreputable tricks of this character will no control the country. If a party has nothing better or broader to offer it will not only go to defeat but to its grave.

DISSOLVING VIEWS.

No sagacious political observer believes that the solid south will ever be marshalled for another effort, as earnest as the recent one, with the aid of one or two northern states to capture the government. The northern democratic party may not be able to learn anything but the southern democratic party is not altogether so hopeless. Already it shows signs of a new perception of the situation. The tendency to "break up" is manifested strongly through the utterances of the southern press. It is emphasized by the appeal of Wade Hampton, delivered a few days ago, not to desert the party. Were there no disposition to desert the party such appeal would be quite useless. The Richmond Evening State strikes what seems to be the key note of a growing southern sentiment when it says that "the announcement that the democratic party had broken ranks never to rally again would be received with resignation." The Charleston News and Courier shows how clearly it sees the inevitable course of things when it says that "since the confederate war the national democratic party has been fighting against the logic of events," that it "has been the party of obstruction and negation," and that "a political party which cares for nothing but immediate success is on the broad road to ruin." True, we have to-day, by telegraph the proscriptive, violent and rabid declarations of a democratic club in South Carolina; but utterances like those appear to be only the final convulsive gasp of expiring brutality. Sensible men in the south can not fail to see that the solid south may as well be broken up at once for all the hope it will hereafter be able to nourish of regaining power with the aid of a small section of northern votes, and that there is no use whatever in combating an overwhelming and ever-losing struggle against the inevitable. There are sensible men in the south who do see this, and who are likely to act upon it. We find the New Orleans Democrat saying: "It is as clear to us as facts, and reason, and probability can make it, that the destinies of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi are inextricably interwoven with those of the great western and northwestern states. Our interests are identical, our sympathies must eventually become set, and the railroad will tear to pieces with its iron fingers the line between the north and south that which now makes enemies and strangers of those whom it divides. God speed the day." There is a single suggestion of danger that these liberal views may not soon be realized. That suggestion comes from reflection on the possibility that the enlightened men of the south may not be able to start it now upon a new career. Passion, prejudice and ignorance may yet bear rule to so great an extent that the masses will repudiate liberal leaders. And so long as men find that they can get into congress, or win prizes in local political contests by ministering to this passion, prejudice and ignorance, be sure they will do it. But even this must be overcome in time. The question now is, how soon.

THE REVISED BIBLE.

The New York Evening Mail has it from an authentic source that the revised new testament will be issued early in 1881, probably in February. The American branch of the revision company has held its last meeting in New York to review its work,—that is to say, the meeting is the last one unless the English company dissent from the result of the labors as now finished and reported, and suggest changes for further consideration. The English company meets this month, and the final touches will doubtless be put to the work in time for its issue at the date promised. The invitation of Dr. Philip Schaff to the public to make $10 contributions toward the expenses of the American revisers, each $10 contributor to be rewarded with a copy of the revised new testament, will remind the public that the revised bible will be much more costly, for years to come, than the King James version. The University press has assumed the expense of the English company, receiving in return exclusive right to publish the revision. To meet the expense incurred, the price of the first edition will be high, and arrangements are made, as implied by Dr. Schaff's announcement, to cover the expense of the American revisers from the first sales in America. The eagerness to inspect the work will doubtless be sufficient to effect large sales, even at high prices. Although the cost of a revised new testament will be great, at first, by the time the old testament revision appears, two or three years hence, the price will probably be nearly as low as the present prices of the various editions of King James' version.

DESTRUCTION OF TIMBER.

Timber in the western divisions of Oregon and Washington is still so abundant that the problem with most people is how to destroy it rather than save it. For many years yet it is likely to be so. In the first settlement of every timbered country destruction of timber is a necessity. And yet in after years the wish is general that the timber had not been more considerately spared. With us timber grows so rapidly that it may be a question whether there is not now quite as much as there was twenty years ago. In some localities the great trees have been removed, and it will be many years before others can grow to equal size; but young timber has grown up in nearly all parts west of the mountains to an extent that more than compensates in quantity of wood for all the great timber trees cut for the mills. The new supply is likely to come on before the old is half exhausted.

But it will not always be so. Consumption of timber with us will soon exceed the rate of growth. Elsewhere this has been found true, and so it will here. The timber of Maine fifty years ago was thought to be inexhaustible. Thousands of men were employed during the winter months in felling trees, and in summer months in rafting the logs down the streams or cutting them into lumber. A recent writer says that Bangor on the Penobscot river, was once the busiest town in the United States. The river was lined with saw mills for miles, and two thousand vessels were employed in the carrying trade. Now two mills cut all the lumber, and not over fifty vessels find employment in the carrying trade. The forests for two hundred miles up the river and for many miles on either side have been laid waste, and "the old pine tree state" is no more than a figure of speech. Spruce, which grows rapidly, is the lumber now generally cut —the product of spruce on the Penobscot being now ten times that of pine. In Michigan and Wisconsin large sections are being rapidly denuded of timber. The mills of Michigan alone cut 600,000,000 feet of lumber annually, and it is doubted whether the available supply of timber will last more than fifteen years longer. The Wisconsin forests have been worked much less extensively, but the utmost limit of supply is fixed at forty years.

Since the purpose with us now is to destroy timber rather than preserve it, these are facts which may awaken curious though temporary interest rather than give an awarning. Like all others, we shall not begin to husband our resources till our resources diminish to an extent that will cause inconvenience. We shall continue to deal with our timber as with our fish—drawing recklessly on both our forests and streams, and not thinking of the reckless waste till it is too late to repair it.

"To the Unknown God."

The following proclamation of thanksgiving has been issued. As there is no mention in it of a divine personality or power, it is probably intended that the people of Oregon shall return thanks to that protoplasm which originally contained all things, and which, while it was yet unconditioned and undifferentiated, was moved by its own immanent and primordial energy, and through evolution produced the universe and all it contains. We don't know but we have suggested heretofore that his excellency adopt for his particular addition after his title of "governor of Oregon," the line from Horace,—"Parcus deorum cultor et infrequens;"—if we have not we suggest it now. Since the governor has been so untrue to his scientific nature as to yield weakly to a popular prejudice as to man's dependence on his Maker, to the extent of issuing a proclamation which may be construed at least as admitting that error, he might as well have gone further, been specific and humored the delusion or phantasy to its whole extent. But we give the proclamation as we find it:

STATE OF OREGON—EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
SALEM, Nov. 9, 1880.

In accordance with a custom that has prevailed for a long period of time, I, W. W. Thayer, governor of the state of Oregon, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 25th day of November, 1880, as a day of thanksgiving.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the state to be affixed the day above written.

[Seal.] W. W. THAYER, Governor of Oregon.
By the Governor, R. P. EARHART, Sec. of State.

The Louisville Courier-Journal lays the blame of democratic defeat at the doors of the democratic leaders in congress who vied with the republicans in assailing Mr. Tilden, and thus compassed his defeat at Cincinnati. He says that it "is clear that the existing alignment of parties cannot endure," and that the time has arrived to "replace our horizontal with perpendicular lines of political discussion." Here is one democrat who can reason otherwise than in a circle.

It is said in army circles that Gen. Sherman contemplates carrying into effect his long cherished design of going on the retired list. This would result in the advancement of Gen. Sheridan to the chief command of the army and the probable transfer of Gen. Hancock from Governor's Island to Chicago. Among the other conjectured changes is one which assigns Gen. Howard to West Point in the place now occupied by Gen. Schofield.

In spite of the fact that in most of the southern states the republican vote was wholly or in part suppressed, it is pretty certain that Garfield's popular vote in all the states exceeds by at least 100,000 that thrown for Hancock. A fair vote in all the states would have made Garfield's popular majority nearly or quite half a million.

Says the New York Times: "The people of California who voted against Garfield on account of the Morey letter must, as the truth in the case dawns on their minds feel that they have been cheated into doing a very mean act from a very mean motive by a lot of very contemptible scamps."

No election returns from Fair's silver mine have been received, but the matter is of no particular consequence to the public. The returns have probably been made to Fair himself, which is the proper thing, seeing that he bought and paid for them.

Edwards saw the movement and springing forward threw one arm around Jones' neck and with the other seized the hand which held an English bull-dog pistol. A rough scuffle followed during which the pistol was discharged the ball burying itself in the wall after tearing through a stop ladder. Jones snapped the pistol again but the cartridge did not explode. Edwards finally threw his assailant to the floor and held him until the arrival of an officer. Jones was taken to the office of Justice Bybee and placed under $1000 bonds.

AMUSEMENTS.

PINAFORE.—This ever popular opera was presented again last night to another crowded house. It was equal in every respect to the first performance and was thoroughly enjoyed. The sudden illness of Miss Plaisted necessitated a slight change in the cast. The role of Buttercup was assigned to Miss Serriah who for the first time during the season had an opportunity for displaying a sweet, well modulated contralto voice. She sang and acted the part well. The other soloists, the chorus and the marines—the latter quite a feature—were in excellent spirits and every number was faultlessly rendered.

The illness of Miss Plaisted who was cast for a very important role in Chimes of Normandy necessitates a postponement of that opera until tomorrow evening. Pinafore will be repeated to-night and will no doubt draw as it deserves another crowded house.

Holders of season tickets can exchange those for to-night's performance for an additional night to be announced hereafter thus fulfilling the promise to subscribers for six different operas for twelve nights. Those who prefer to attend to-night can of course do so.

A CULPABLE NEGLECT

The following telegram to a New York paper shows that pleasant weather was arranged for election day four days in advance for all states east of the Mississippi river:

WASHINGTON Oct 30.—The weather bureau reports that the general atmospheric conditions now indicate that on Tuesday November 2 the weather will be clear or fair from the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic.

The usually very efficient signal officer in this city seems to have neglected Oregon on that occasion and every voter who turned out on election day knows what kind of weather he got.

RECOVERED HIS SPEECH.

A Mute after many years Suddenly Gains the Power of Speech—A Remarkable Case.

The Telegram of last evening contains an account of one of the mute inmates of the Insane asylum at East Portland who suddenly recovered his speech last Sunday. The paper says:

For years Mr Anderson a dumb inmate of the asylum has plodded along, attending to his duties as a trusty faithful being unable to speak a word. He was always in readiness to assist the keepers in any way within his power in a cheerful and contented manner. All efforts to bring back the use of his vocal organs which had been silent for many years were in vain and he was told that he could never again speak.

On Sunday last the inmates were given a romp in the handsome grove which is surrounded by a high wall in order to sun themselves. One of the inmates a rather wild individual imagined he was a squirrel and away he went scampering up one of the tall fir trees to its topmost branches and would neither return to solid ground for pleadings or threats. As usual Anderson was near at hand and volunteered to go up and bring him back. The poor unfortunates who were in the yard at the time were greatly pleased and shouted and laughed joyfully as Anderson climbed from branch to branch toward the top. He had climbed about thirty feet from the ground when a limb broke and down came Anderson bouncing among the branches finally sitting down upon the ground like the hammer of a pile driver. The wardens expected to see him killed or knocked senseless but they were doomed to astonishment as Anderson sprang to his feet and burst out in a volley of profanity that would have put a trooper to blush. He kept up a swearing without intermission for at least ten minutes while everybody stood transfixed with astonishment. He had recovered his speech and to day can talk as well as any person and to say that he is delighted in consequence of his fall is drawing it mild

A public welcome and grand social reception was held at Boise City on the 8th of November in honor of the arrival of Gov. John B. Neil and family. An address of welcome, response toasts and a feast were the principal features of the occasion. The best feeling prevailed and the affair was extremely enjoyable to all and complimentary to the new executive of Idaho

Idaho Statesman: George Myers about sixty years old, who has been in Ada county eight or ten years, and follows teaming, was last seen (Sept. 23d) about two miles beyond Emigrant springs on the Kelton road driving his team of six mules and four horses, and a man well known here rid[illegible] with him by the name of McDonald. That night McDonald drove the team to O'Connor's place—Salmon falls—and told that he had bought the team. McDonald drove the team to Kelton and has hauled a load of goods here and is now on his way to Wood river. Myers has not been seen or heard of. He has a small band of horses on Dry creek ten miles west of Boise and his friends are anxious to know what has become of him

Snuff Taking Girls

[Atlanta Sunny South.]

We are acquainted with daughters whose snuff bottles are concealed in their rooms where they use the contents constantly without the knowledge of their parents. We have seen at boarding schools, girls go into hysterics when deprived for a day or two of their snuff and borrow tobacco from the servants as a substitute, until they could obtain their usual stimulant of Scotch or Maccaboy, and we are well acquainted with three sisters—beautiful young girls were it not for the sallow hue tarnishing their complexion—who are at present under medical treatment for derangement of the nervous system and digestive organs arising from the constant use of snuff

Flowers of plush silk and shaded velvet are worn upon autumn bonnets. Other artificial flowers are rarely used except as garniture for evening costumes, upon these they are seen in great profusion

The coal scuttle scoop bonnet is the style. Of this there is not a shadow of doubt. It is therefore accepted by many fashionable and pretty women who thereby transform themselves into absolute witch-like guys

Jaunty Creole turbans made of Madras silk handkerchiefs in brightest colors are very stylish and are particularly becoming to brunettes. They have a cluster of short feather tips on the left side of the toque, held by a gyve, or slave's chain, of Roman gold.

Intense coloring and startling combinations seemed to have reached their limit both in dress and millinery, and American ladies already look with admiring eyes upon the very few costumes exhibited by leading importers which are quiet in colors and simple and elegant in design

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 17, 1880.

AWAKE.

The sun gets up in the morning
And lifts his stately head;
Open your eyes, my sleepy skies
The sun is out of bed!
The moon is very timid,
She dare not meet the sun,
With a heigh-ho! the stars must go,
And hide themselves one by one.

The sun gets up in the morning,
The world is all alight;
Every tree is full of glee,
Every blossom bright;
Every bird is singing
A welcome to his king,
With a Well done, beautiful sun!
You glorify everything.

The sun gets up in the morning,
And so must children too;
How dare you keep fast asleep?
The sun is calling you!
Mid all the birds and blossoms
Your merry voices raise,
With a Hurrah! How glad we are
We have got a sun to praise!

—Good Words.

SHYNESS IN SOCIETY.

The Difficulties Timid People Experience in Getting Through Life—The Queer Figure they Cut in the Social Circle.

It is amusing, it is instructive, it is somewhat piteous, to watch the behavior of timid people in this world. A writer in the London Queen says upon this subject: We are impatient at the humble martyrdom to which they daily and hourly submit; we are puzzled by the contradictions of their conduct; we are astounded by what seems to us occasionally the dissimulation of their ways. We do not speak here of the people who have a wholesome and beautiful grain of shyness in their souls, but of those inveterately, those incorrigibly timid folk who would almost seem to have come into the world scared by the sense of possessing an individuality of their own. An insuperable difficulty of saying "No" leads them into a network of intricacies. They cannot viva voce refuse any suit, deny any request, dismiss any bore; they are disregarded by their servants for they dare not tell them of their faults; their friends misunderstand them, for they shrink within themselves with a pertinacity that creates a solitude around them. When they would emerge out of this retreat to bless and comfort, their timidity overwhelms them, checks their utterance or turns their soothing words into an awkward, perhaps a wounding, phrase. When wound up to comparative boldness, they would reprove, their hints fall unheeded; or if their poor little shafts hit the mark, the wounds they give rankle more surely and are more resented than those inflicted in franker warfare.

DISSIMULATIONS.

The dissimulations of timid people are often a matter of perplexity to brave souls. They know that the tale of woe poured into their ears is humbug, yet they will murmur apologies for the smallness of their contribution to its relief. The glassy eye of the bore is fixed upon them. They will smile in answer to it, and listen with every sign of interest to outpoured platitudes. Any acquaintance, whose long visits are a weariness, eating up the long hours as a moth frets away a garment, is greeted by the timid, fearful or unmannerly behavior, with a cordiality that should only be bestowed upon the friend whom we hold in our heart's core. To the astonished spectator the timid would sometimes appear guilty of the blackest treachery. Their creed is attacked, their friend is ill-spoken of, and they do not lift up a protesting voice. They listen to the adversary in what might well be interpreted an acquiescing silence, or mutter some broken phrases, the feeble refutation of which is more puzzling to the bolder hearted than open treachery. They poor souls are keenly aware of their apparent duplicity; they despise themselves for their lack of spirit and honesty, but they cannot help themselves; they are slaves of their shamefacedness. To one mode of action the timid have recourse with effect. It is amusing to note their boldness upon paper. When the cup of annoyance runs over, when the humiliation can be borne no more and the tormentor is out of sight and hearing, then the timid wax courageous. And who can exceed the bravery, nay the ferocity, of the timid who have cast away fear? Intrenched in the solitude of their chamber, their pen in hand, the accumulated wrongs silently endured now find voice, and the words flow with a plainness of meaning, directness of point and disregard of conventional politeness that would not be appreciated by the habitually frank spoken.

A DISCREET CHARM.

In this go-ahead generation we admit that, with all their lack of spirit and their inconsistencies, the shy appear to us invented with a discreet charm. Even in its exaggeration there is an attractiveness in their timidity; we rather pity than blame its development. We feel drawn to those bashful beings who hold themselves of no account. We imagine that they are worth knowing if they would only let themselves be known. We would encourage them and gently urge them; we would argue with them to reveal their true natures to us, but the contagion of their shyness overtakes us. None are so difficult to approach as the timid; the boldest spirits who treat with happy familiarity the highest born and the wittiest, are overawed by the shy. They are seized with a strange and new experience of timidity before these mysterious ones, who making no confidence ask for none. It would seem an unwarrantable liberty to seek to intrude within the frigid circle in which they seem to hedge themselves round. The behavior of the timid in society is as puzzling as their speech. The dread of hearing the sound of her voice, of gesticulating, gives to one that tranquil and self contained manner which is the highest distinction of high breeding. It excites another; her talk grows loud, her speech rash, her manner emphatic. The shyness, whose root, to use Plutarch's words, is in "the generous sensitiveness to shame," gives to the brave and high-spirited powers of endurance and work, the contemplation of a high ideal and the yearning to attain it are their mainsprings to action and multiply their energies. The timid-hearted are hampered by their sensitiveness. Easily rebuffed by failure, they quickly judge themselves not worthy to seek to achieve great things, and give up striving for them. Their ideal is to them a hindrance rather than an incentive. This timidity may spring from a certain sluggishness of temper, or may be caused by morbid pride. Because they cannot attain easily they will not strive at all; because they fear to fail they will not endeavor to climb.

Vermont Gilt Edged Butter.

WORKING AND SALTING.

When it has "broken" and there is a difficulty to make the butter gather, throw in some cold water and give a few more turns. Some—and I think a majority of the best butter makers of to-day—wash their butter with cold water before removing it from the churn. Gather your butter with the paddle and lift it out into the tray, press it gently and incline it, and let the buttermilk run off. Work it gently with the paddle with a cutting, gentle pressure, but not to mash it, or, better, put into the butter worker.

Salt it about an ounce to the pound, or to the taste of good customers, only with the best salt and free from lumps and coarseness. Work the butter only so much as to expel the buttermilk, but not to work it too dry. This can be done by the use of a weak brine prepared for the purpose. Put the bowl away in a cool place. After standing, twelve or twenty-four hours gently press out with a ladle or machine the remaining buttermilk and any brine that will flow out with it, care being used not to work too much. If this is done the butter has lost its grain and becomes salvey, and its keeping qualities are greatly injured.

PACKING.

Pack in vessels which will impart no impurities to the butter. Fill within half an inch of the top. Place a thin cloth wholly over the butter. Over that pour cold brine as strong as can be made of hot water and the purest salt, or cover with a layer of the salt. The whole process of making the butter, from drawing the milk to the placing of the butter in packages should be hurried, as milk, cream and butter are going to decay every moment when exposed to the air, however pure it may be. Such butter is ready to keep or to sell. If it be kept long before selling, surround every package with coarse salt by placing them in boxes prepared for the purpose. This process keeps the butter cool and hard and free from sudden changes of air. When all these things are attended to promptly and with as much uniformity as is under the power of man to control, there will be a near approach to uniformity in color, richness and purity. If the beginner follow these rules and keep doing so, he will command the highest figures.

"I've a bet on New York," said a man at Carson, Nev., Wednesday night. "I bet $50 that Garfield would win. But I've got to go to Bodie to-night; I'll take forty cash for the bet." Instantly half a dozen men sprang forward with the money in their hands to pick up so good a thing. "Who did you bet with?" asked several voices. "Tom Tennant; it was a jaw bone bet." They put their money in their pockets in a style that showed an utter lack of confidence in New York and the Associated press reports.

The democratic party has never been quite itself since it hung its state's rights banners on the Appomatox apple tree, where they have been torn into tatters by the October and November cyclones each recurring four years since then.

In the local market there is a very fair degree of activity in nearly all branches of trade, and shippers and dealers find themselves in most cases full of business. Though the wheat movement is somewhat checked by the high freights and the disinclination of farmers to sell at current rates, exporters do not find fault with those who will not sell at current quotations, but claim that present offers are quite as high as holders can expect, taking into consideration the English and San Francisco markets and freights. The highest quotation obtainable from San Francisco to-day, for instance, is $1 52½ for choice milling, and the highest here is $1 47½, or a difference of $1 per short ton. This is less than the usual difference between charters at the two points. The vessels at hand are rapidly filling up, and no new charters are reported. The Willamette river is becoming very low again, and a large quantity of produce toward the head of the valley is awaiting shipment to this point, but which cannot be reached until the rainy season, so late beginning, has set in.

The freight market, however, is in such a condition that the receipts of wheat are ample to fill the wants of the trade. The outlook for tonnage as far as affected by what is in sight, is not flattering to a full supply, though later on in the season there may more vessels turn in the direction of this coast.

ENGLISH CROPS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade for the past week, says: The weather is mild, but rainy, and altogether a large proportion of the wheat sowing has been accomplished under very favorable circumstances. Deliveries of English wheat show very indifferent condition. A good sample of English red sold comparatively readily. Values have been relatively higher in the provinces than in London. At the beginning of the week prices were higher in many of the provincial markets, but the tendency was weaker at the close. Inferior samples were heavy. The same may be said of foreign wheat. Floating cargoes of American improved 9d to is Tuesday and Wednesday, and East Indian 1s, but at the close of the week American had lost the advance and cargo trade was generally weaker.

The quantity of breadstuffs on passage and being shipped for the United Kingdom, shows an increase on last week. There were on Friday, still 60 wheat laden vessels overdue. As they arrive off coast trade weakens. American advices also have a weakening tendency.

English flour was in small supply and prices were well supported. Prices of foreign flour were also well supported, but the supply was better.

Barley was slow, except for best malting samples of British, which were very scarce. Barley cargoes were steady.

Oats firmly held but quieter at the close.

Maize on spot advanced 6d, but was less firm at the close. Maize on passage advanced 3d to 6d early in the week, but the advance was lost on Friday.

Sales of English wheat during the week was 43,771 quarters at 43s 5d per quarter, against 30,635 quarters at 45s 9d, during the corresponding period last year.

Imports into the United Kingdom for the week ending November 6, were 970,930 hundred weights wheat, 241,319 hundred weights flour.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—In the freight market there is no material change to note, shipments being fairly active and no change in rates. Ship owners continue to ask full prices for their vessels and no charters have been made.

Markets not over lively. Wheat opened, ruled and closed dull and half a cent lower. There was but little export demand.

Barley was excited and 3c higher, with Oswego and other markets, all of which, including the west, have been buying quietly but freely until the stock is reduced and mostly out of farmers' hands and controlled by dealers, who find the crop in the west short and better consumption there since the panic. LANDS,

PEN D'OREILLE DIVISION

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5,000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pend d'Oreille Division, in Eastern Washington, which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located from the mouth of Snake River, in Washington Territory, to Lake Pend d'Oreille, in Idaho. These lands, of unexcelled fertility, and adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired, are offered by the Railroad Company at such prices and terms as cannot fail to induce settlement and cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country, and increase in value to those who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company, passed November 19th, 1879, fixes the cash price of land to actual settlers at two dollars and sixty cents per acre, which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been voluntarily placed upon its lands by any land grant company. This is, in fact, cheaper than the settler can purchase the same class of land of the Government under the pre-emption law for the expense attending the making of final proof, and the journey to the land office which he must necessarily make in order to complete his entry, is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at Government price of $2 50 per acre, with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting, surveying and conveying said land.

"This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands, nor to lands chiefly valuable for timber, nor to lands required for town sites or suitable for manufacturing sites, nor in regions where water is scarce to lands containing springs or other natural supply, where it shall be for the interest of settlers at large that such water privileges shall not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road."

To persons wishing to purchase on time, the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms: One-fourth cash at time of purchase, the balance in four equal yearly payments at 7 per cent interest. The above price for time sales is adopted for the present, but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company their notice of intention to purchase or "Settlers' Applications," as they are called, for land in this division (except in the class of lands reserved by the terms of the resolution above given) and who have continued to reside upon or cultivate the land applied for, are requested to complete their purchase by making cash payment, or time contract, for the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at Colfax.

Persons who have not made actual settlement or improvement upon land they may have applied for have no right to the first privilege of purchase; such lands will be sold to the first applicant. Those persons who have in good faith settled upon and improved the company's land should lose no time in securing the same, as after a given time the land is subject to sale to any other person.

The land in this division being now offered for sale no more "Settlers' Applications" will be filed.

Sportsmen and Tourists.

THE UPPER CASCADES AND VICINITY, AT the present season offers the finest inducements of perhaps any locality within a radius of 200 miles of Portland. Lake, brook and mountain trout await the disciples of the "gentle art," whilst the followers of Nimrod can find with the festive bear and frolicsome cougar to their heart's content, whilst deer are not unknown.

An elegant and comfortable hotel (The Borthwick House) is now established with Portland prices and reliable guides, dogs, boats, guns, and everything necessary for an outfit can be had within ten minutes.

The glorious mountain scenery, elegant river views, and enormous government works, alone, will amply repay a visit.
